Creating a Plan: Start With These Questions

Physical Needs:

- ? Are you able to get in and out of a vehicle without assistance?
- ? Can you get yourself to a bus stop?
- ? Can you get in and out of your wheelchair and into a vehicle without assistance or do you need a wheelchair lift?
- ? Would you be able to drive yourself if you adapted your vehicle to be more handicapped-accessible?

Types and Frequency of Trips

- ? Do you need a ride to work every day?
- ? Occasional trips to the store?
- ? Transportation to doctor's appointments?
- ? To play cards at the weekly card club get together?

Giving up driving is a big step. We recognize how hard it is and hope this booklet will provide reassurance that you can build a plan that will help you get where you want to go!

Scheduling and Convenience

- ? Are you willing to reserve a ride 24-48 hours in advance?
- ? Would you prefer to call for a ride the day you need or want to go?

Cost

- ? Is cost a consideration?
- ? Can you have cash handy?
- ? How many trips can you afford?

Some transportation services may be partially paid for by programs such as Medicaid or Paratransit. Others services require that you pay at the time of the service.

Different Transportation Options for Different Uses

- ? Consider the types of trips you will be making. You may want to consider using a number of different types of transportation for different trips. For example, you may be able to use Medical Assistance to pay for van service to the doctor's office and Paratransit for trips to the store.

Once you have considered all your needs, i.e.: physical needs, the kinds of trips you plan to take, the location of your destination, scheduling, and cost, you'll see that knowing about and using more than one transportation option will give you the most freedom of movement.

Ride- Hailing

Ride-hailing is a new type of transportation service that uses technology to match riders with drivers who use their own cars. “Uber” or “Lyft” are examples of this type of service in our county. Riders download an app and register a bank or credit card account to be charged for rides. There is no cash exchanged between you and the driver. When you want a ride, you tap the app and enter the location you wish to go. You’ll see the driver’s picture and vehicle details and can track their arrival on a map. You must be able to transfer in and out of the vehicle yourself. Drivers use their own vehicles and may not be able to accommodate a wheelchair. Go to <https://www.uber.com/cities/green-bay/> or <https://www.lyft.com/cities/green-bay> for more information.

Friends, Family, Neighbors, Church members, etc.

When setting up your transportation plan don’t forget to explore what friends, family, neighbors, your church or club friends can do for you. Does your church have a “ride board” of people who are willing to pick you up when they go to church? How about the card club, exercise or coffee time friends—does anyone drive near your home on their way to another location? Sharing a ride is great way to get around, most people are happy to pick you up. Don’t be afraid to ask. Your neighbor needs groceries just like you do, would one of them be willing to pick up a few items for you when they go? So often people just need to be asked. Go through this booklet with your family and ask them where they think they fit in your ride plan. Encourage them to be honest about when they feel they can help.

Tip for Organizing Your Ride Plan

Here’s a tip for a way to organize the plan you have developed. Take a sheet of paper, notebook, or a section of your address book and compile a list of options you’ve selected for your ride plan. This will could make setting up rides so much easier.
